ETHICS COMMISSION ANNOUNCES SETTLEMENT WITH CITY OFFICIALS CONCERNING
ECONOMIC INTEREST DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS

At a public meeting yesterday, the San Diego Ethics Commission announced that it has taken action to enforce the economic interest disclosure requirements set forth in the Ethics Ordinance. The Commission voted unanimously to approve settlement agreements with the following City Officials who have agreed to pay a fine in connection with the late filing of their 2004 annual Statements of Economic Interests:

- Timothy Bubnack, member of the Technology Fund Board
- Marianne Greene, member of the City Heights Project Area Committee
- Andrea Oates, member of the North Bay Project Area Committee
- Louis ("Jim") Myers, Program Manager, Development Services Department
- George Ossavou, member of the City Heights Project Area Committee
- Mary Zoeller, member of the San Diego Data Processing Corporation Board

The amount of the fines varied from $200 to $400, depending upon the City Official's prior history of non-compliance. The settlements were part of a streamlined program designed to give each respondent an opportunity to resolve the matter for a nominal fine without the need for an extensive investigation or administrative hearing. The settlement agreements were made by way of stipulations that can be viewed on the Commission's website at www.sandiego.gov/ethics.

The Ethics Ordinance requires all City Officials to file an annual Statement of Economic Interests disclosing certain financial interests, including investments, interests in real property, loans, gifts, and sources of income that could potentially present a conflict of interest when participating in municipal decisions. According to the Commission’s Executive Director Stacey Fulhorst, “The disclosure of economic interests is one of the fundamental provisions of the Ethics Ordinance because it provides the transparency necessary to assure the public that City Officials are not influencing municipal decisions that could affect their personal economic interests.” Annual Statements of Economic Interests are due on April 1 of each year. The City Clerk’s Office contacts each filer well in advance of the filing deadline, and sends a follow-up notice if the Statement is not timely received.

Commission Chairwoman Dorothy Leonard commented that, although the Commission is mindful of the invaluable service provided by the members of the City’s Boards and Commissions, the requirements regarding economic interest disclosure “cannot be ignored simply because these City Officials are volunteers.” Chairwoman Leonard added that, with these enforcement actions, the Commission hopes to remind all City Officials that the timely filing of Statements of Economic Interests will be strictly enforced by the Commission.

Ethics Commission fines are paid to the City of San Diego’s General Fund. The stipulated settlements approved by the Commission resolve all factual and legal issues without the necessity of holding an administrative hearing.
